FINDING MATERIAL IN THE CATALOG

You can look for materials in the library's online catalog by author, title or subject or keyword. The online catalog has some powerful searching features, such as limiting your search to location, language, etc. You may access the library's catalog by going to the library web page. The catalog link is the first one under Books, Articles, and More. Please note that this catalog includes Kelly Library's holdings as well as the libraries of King University, and the public libraries of Washington and Tazewell counties. Since this group is known as Holston Associated Libraries, you may hear the catalog referred to as HAL. With your student ID card, you may check out materials from all of these libraries, and can request materials from them through the catalog and have them delivered to E&H. Speak with a librarian or circulation staff member for further details. The following screen shot is a subject search on the designer of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial, Maya Lin.

The screenshot shows the HAL website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with 'My Account', 'About HAL', 'Libraries and Hours', 'Advanced Search', and 'Help Topics'. Below that is a search bar with 'SUBJECT' dropdown, 'Return to Emory & Henry College Library', and 'Limit/Sort Search' dropdown. The search results are displayed in a list format with three items, each with a circled icon (Streaming, DVD, Book) and a table of copies.

FINDING MATERIAL BY USING DATABASES

Kelly Library subscribes to several online full-text and partially full-text databases that would be helpful in locating material for your research assignments in this class. You may access them from the library web page by clicking on the A-Z Databases list. To access these databases from off-campus, see the following section.

Academic Search Complete, America: History & Life, and Humanities Search Complete. (All EBSCO)

These databases are partially full-text, and include both popular and scholarly periodicals in a wide variety of academic fields. At this point in college, you've probably used ASC and JSTOR (listed below).

General OneFile

General OneFile is another partially full-text, multi-subject, popular- and scholarly-content database and complements ASC nicely.

JSTOR

Database of scholarly journals and books. Although there is a time lag or "moving wall" of 2-5 years, the database goes back to volume 1, issue 1 for each journal. Good coverage in history and art.

Kanopy

A video streaming service; many documentaries on the Vietnam War.

Project Muse

PM is a full-text database that consists of over 100 journals from the Johns Hopkins University Press and other academic publishers. Depending on your topic, this full-text database may be useful.

ProQuest Dissertations and Theses Global

PQD&TG is a database of nearly 3 million citations; many are full-text doctoral dissertations. See the search on the following page on "Maya Lin" AND "Vietnam Veterans Memorial"

World Catalog

Not full-text; a database of millions of books and other materials. If you find gaps in the library's collection on a topic, this would be a good place to identify titles on a subject and request them through interlibrary loan.

The screenshot shows the Project MUSE website interface. At the top left, the Project MUSE logo is highlighted with a red box. In the top right, the navigation links "for Librarians", "for Publishers", and "Advanced Search" are visible, with a red arrow pointing to the "Advanced Search" link. Below the navigation is a search bar with a "BROWSE" button and a search input field containing "Content". A red arrow points to the search icon. On the left side, there are several filter panels: "Access" (with "Only content I have full access to" checked), "Content Type" (with "Journals (15)", "Articles (9)", and "Reviews (6)" listed), "Research Area" (with "Area and Ethnic Studies (5)", "History > U.S. History (4)", "Literature (4)", "History (4)", "Literature > American Literature (3)", and "Area and Ethnic Studies > American Studies (3)" listed), and "Author" (with "Michael Kammen (2)", "Michael A. Elliott (1)", "Karen Ohnesorge (1)", and "Johan Ahr (1)" listed). The main search area shows a "NEW SEARCH" button and search criteria: "Content" FOR ALL OF THESE TERMS "Maya Lin" and "Content" FOR ALL OF THESE TERMS "Vietnam Veterans Memorial". Below this, it says "Results 1-10 of 15" and "ITEMS PER PAGE: 10". The search results are sorted by "Relevance". The first result is "Our Memorials, Ourselves" by Michael A. Elliott, with a red arrow pointing to the "Download PDF (192.2 KB)" link. The second result is "Henry James @ Ground Zero: Remembering the Future" by Beverly Haviland.

The screenshot shows the ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Global website interface. At the top, the "ProQuest Dissertations & Theses Global" logo is highlighted with a red box. Below the logo are navigation links: "Basic Search", "Advanced Search", "Browse", and "About", with a red arrow pointing to "Advanced Search". The search bar contains the query "maya lin" AND "Vietnam veterans memorial" and is highlighted with a red box. Below the search bar, there are options for "Full text" and "Doctoral dissertations only", and links for "Modify search", "Recent searches", and "Save search/alert". A suggestion box says "Did you mean: 'maya liny' AND 'Vietnam veterans memorial'". Below this, it says "294 results" and "Search within". There are icons for "Cite", "Email", "Print", and "Save". The search results are sorted by "Relevance". The first result is "We leave you our deaths. Give them their meaning": Memory, identity and the Vietnam Veterans Memorial by van Beek, Sydney Liam Elisabeth. The University of Western Ontario (Canada), ProQuest Dissertations Publishing, 2010. NR73394. A red arrow points to the "Full text - PDF (16 MB)" link. The second result is "Remembering through the corpus. The intersection of (moving) bodies with architecture at the Vietnam Veterans Memorial".

Another resource you might want to try is E&H OneSearch. It is a discovery service that searches many (but not all) of the library's databases and catalog simultaneously. You can access it from the library's main page, or the A – Z Database list. Its user interface is the same as Academic Search Complete. Databases not included are listed on the right side of the search screen under "Continue your search."

So What If the Citation You Are Looking At Is Not Full-Text?

What do you do if the citation you are looking at in a database—General OneFile, for example—is not full-text in that database? You need to search the E-Journals by Title list under Books, Articles, and More column on the library home page. Click on Publications and type in the periodical title. If the periodical article you are looking for is in one of the library's databases, the E-Journal list will direct you there. If the library does not have full-text access to the article, you may wish to use the interlibrary loan service.

REMOTE ACCESS

You can access all of these databases from off campus. To find directions on how to do this, click on Off-Campus Connection under the Research column for this information. Or, you can do simply is type the library page URL (www.library.ehc.edu), and then click on A-Z Databases. A login box will appear when you click on any database. Enter your user name and password, just as if you were logging on to a computer in the library or one of the labs. If you are having difficulty with off-campus access, please let one of the reference librarians know.

INTERLIBRARY LOAN

Although Kelly Library has a large collection of periodicals, art books and full-text databases, as you use these print and electronic resources, you will find citations to journals and books Kelly Library does not own. Our staff will try to get article copies or borrow books for you through interlibrary loan. To order material this way, click on the interlibrary loan link on the library home page under Services. If you have never used this service, you will need to register by clicking on the first time users button and completing some user information—you'll need your barcoded ID card. You will need to do this only one time. Then, you can proceed to the book and photocopy order forms. Please double check your requests in the catalog (for books) and the EJournals by Title list (for periodical titles) to be sure that the library does not own the material before you fill in the order form. You should allow about 2-4 days for article copies and 5-7 days (books) for your requests to arrive. Although there is generally no charge to students, faculty, and staff for requesting up to 50 items in a year, there is a five dollar charge per request for more than 50. Also, if the lending library charges a fee, we pass that fee to the library user. Please do not submit more than 10 requests for returnable material (books) at one time. If you have questions about this service, ask Holly or Jane.

DOCUMENTATION

Whenever you quote an author's exact words or paraphrase his or her unique ideas, you must credit that source to avoid plagiarism. Plagiarism is a serious breach of E&H's Academic Code and the Honor Code. Academic fields have various documentation systems to credit the authors, such as the MLA, APA or Chicago styles. Your instructor has specified the Chicago Manual of Style. If you have documentation questions, please consult with your instructor, a librarian, the Writing Center, or look at the Research Tips under the Research column.

Remember: If you need help using or locating any of the materials mentioned in this handout, please ask a reference librarian (Jane Caldwell, Jody Hanshew, Janet Kirby, Holly McCormick) or circulation staff member (Adam Alley, Cindy Goodson, Christine Mitten, Missy Phelps, or Courtney Sheets) for assistance. If that person cannot help you, he or she will direct you to someone who can.
